METHOD AND APPARATUS TO RECOVER DATA FROM PULSES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods and corresponding apparatus to recover data from a signal comprising groups of pulses generated in response to analog waveforms are described. Data recovery in accordance with the invention is based on parameters characterizing the groups of pulses. These parameters are the basis for mapping the groups of pulses to information symbols which collectively constitute the data to be recovered.